

Research Collaboration

Several tools are available to conduct collaborative writing, data analyses, and literature management. In this series of blog posts, I am going to write about a few of them. I use Mendeley for bibliographic data management, Google docs for file management, and online writing. It will be helpful for you to learn and familiarize yourself a little about these collaborative technologies.

What is Mendeley and How to Use it