University of Canterbury Wiki

This is the home of the University of Canterbury wiki based on Confluence Wiki software.

This wiki is open to all members of the University of Canterbury community and a new space can be requested by any staff member provided they are willing to follow some basic guidelines. They (or their delegate) will be able to manage who can view their wiki space, add pages etc. In particular, they are able to invite members of other university communities to share their space.

The University of Canterbury ICT Service Desk is ready to help users get their projects started on the Wiki - by creating a wiki space, adjusting the permissions, or just helping the users get going. For more information on the tasks the ICT Service Desk can help you with - particularly those where administrative access is needed - please refer to the link below.
